President Refuses To Outline Future Action on Labor

Truman Says He Will Make No Comment Until Measures Are on Desk

Washington, June 14 (AP)—President Truman declined to comment today on what action he might take with respect to any future labor legislation.

The President was asked at a news conference if he would sign his own temporary emergency bill if it came to him with the Case labor disputes bill attached as a rider. Mr. Truman, who had vetoed the Case Bill Tuesday, said that he would follow the custom of not commenting until the legislation reached his desk.

Absence of a final Republican go-ahead reportedly is holding up action on a Congressional plan to hand the President a diluted and temporary version of the Case measure.

As evolved in a series of conferences, the idea is to knock out of the vetoed Case Bill all sections dealing with mediation and to wrap up the remainder with the President's emergency plan and his renewed request for a Congressional study of long-range labor legislation.

If the suggestion were followed, the omnibus measure would be presented as an emergency bill with all authority expiring July 1, 1947. During the interim the Senate-Case Committee study which Mr. Truman urged would be completed and recommendations made for permanent legislation.

While Democratic members of the bipartisan group apparently all favored starting the ball rolling in the House Rules Committee next Tuesday, Republicans gave signs of holding back.

Rep. Francis Case (R-S.D.), who fathered the bill which Mr. Truman forcefully turned down earlier in the week, told a reporter he thought it would be "futile" to send to the President any measure that approximated the rejected bill.

But Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said he hoped that by combining the emergency measure with those features of the Case bill which seemed most objectionable to Mr. Truman, some labor legislation might be obtained. Otherwise, he said, there might be none enacted.

Governor Will Help Wicks In State Education Probe

Steelman Is Picked For O.W.M. Post

Will Succeed John Snyder Who Will Become Treasury Head

Washington, June 14 (AP)—President Truman today announced he was appointing John R. Steelman as director of the Office of War Mobilization and Conversion.

Steelman, a special assistant to the President, will succeed John W. Snyder, who has been nominated for Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. Truman told his news conference that he had decided to continue the O.W.M.R. on the advice of practically all members of his cabinet as well as the O.W.M.R. Advisory Committee.

He previously had said that O.W.M.R. would be gradually liquidated since he believed most of the country's reconversion problems had been solved.

De Gasperi Asks Italians Give Support to Republic

Rome, June 14 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi appealed to Italians today to support the new republic, regardless of how they voted in last week's plebiscite.

The former addressed the nation by radio in an atmosphere of tension created by an acrimonious exchange between his government and King Umberto II, who reached Lisbon today for his exile.

A manifesto issued last night in Umberto's name charged that the cabinet had usurped the King's powers in a "revolutionary gesture" with the dictatorship. Had it tempted in the last few months to regain his power.

"He is part of the national catastrophe," De Gasperi said, asserting an expiation was due from Umberto, even as "we all must expiate."

The Premier urged Italians "to show the strength of unity at a time when peace treaty negotiations

Cautions Hand Planned to Avoid Charge of 'Mixing Politics, Education'

By ROBERT S. JOHANSON Albany, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—Governor Dewey is expected to play a cautious hand in connection with the $50,000 probe of the State Education Department by a newly-created commission.

Dewey, a reliable source close to the administration indicated, will carefully watch the commission's procedures in an effort to avoid accusations of "mixing politics and education."

The commission, established by the 1946 legislature, organized last week under the chairmanship of Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston Republican and head of the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

Immediately Wicks announced that the commission's appropriation and its entire program would be concentrated on a "thorough" investigation of the Education Department.

This action surprised some Capitol Hill observers.

Truman Says Ship Settlement May Prevent Walkout

Tells News Conference Bridges Has Agreed to 22-Cent Boost for Stevedores

Washington, June 14 (AP)—President Truman reported today that he had been informed there was a good prospect for settling the maritime labor crisis in time to prevent a shipping tieup tonight.

This was related by the President to his news conference, while on Capitol Hill Capt. Granville Conway was shipping chief, said that Harry Bridges had agreed to accept a wage increase of 22 cents an hour for his C.I.O. longshoremen.

In view of this, Conway told a House labor subcommittee investigating the scheduled strike of maritime unions at midnight, "it seems reasonable to me that it will be settled" this afternoon.

Bridges' objection to the 22-cent figure has been one of the biggest—and perhaps the last—stumbling blocks separating unions and operators and the government from an agreement.

The decision now to take it, as reported by Conway, convinced Chairman A. B. Kelly (D., Pa.) of the House groups that the strike was "over."

Bridges had given ground bitterly, and even as he brightened the prospects of averting the strike now, he flung a threat of another maritime crisis in little more than three months.

He hinted he would take the 22-cent figure only until September 30.

Mr. Truman said that the Labor Department was his source of information about a good prospect for settlement of the controversy before tonight.

A reporter asked the President daily whether he thought there would be a walkout.

No, was the reply, he didn't think there would be a shipping strike.

Conway told the House group that the only thing left to be worked out was an agreement regarding retroactive pay for the west coast seamen.

What Conway hopes will be the final negotiations session was set for 2 p. m. (E.S.T.).

Conway testified that Bridges had reported: If final agreement is reached this afternoon, there will be no interruption of work.

Civil Service Tests Planned by Police

With five vacancies on the Kingston police force the municipal civil service board will hold an examination on July 8 at 7 p. m. at the Kingston High School to make up an eligible list from which the police board may make appointments.

Those desiring to take the examination may obtain full particulars as to requirements, application blanks and other information by applying to the civil service board.

The position of patrolman pays a salary of from $2,040 to $2,400. Secretary Paul J. Kaman, Jr., of the civil service board, said today that a member of the board would be at the city clerk's office in the city hall Saturday morning, from 9 o'clock until noon, to distribute application blanks and furnish any information desired by the applicants.

All applications must be filed with the city clerk or a member of the civil service board on or before June 20.

Washington, June 14 (AP)—The position of the Treasury June 12: Receipts $151,695,700.64; expenditures $142,628,453.49; balance $16,445,148.08; customs receipts for month $14,485,299.04; receipts fiscal year July 1 $29,506,700.26; expenditures fiscal year $60,870,589,997.78; excess of total receipts $21,363,889,729.92; total debt $271,948,542,719.95; increase under previous day $23,013,382.23; gold assets $20,270,499,331.68.

Working for Refugees

Washington, June 14 (AP)—The United States is urging admission of 100,000 refugee Jews to Palestine. President Truman said today, and is trying to work out the problem with Britain.

O. P. A. Bill Is Sent Back To House; Veto Cry Arises; Bowles and Porter May Quit

Memorial Group Has $3,183, Has Quota of $25,000

Committee Has Received 12.7 Per Cent of Fund; Drive Will End in Six Months

A goal of $25,000 was set on March 1, as the minimum amount needed for a Memorial to Veterans of World War 2, and of that amount $3,183.39, has already been received. It was announced today by Superintendent Ernest A. Steuding, who is general chairman of the drive to raise the funds needed.

The drive, said Mr. Steuding, is to continue until January 1, 1947, and the amount of money then on hand will be the guiding factor in assisting the Memorial Selection Committee to decide the kind of memorial to be erected in Kingston.

Chairman Steuding in discussing the drive, called attention to the fact that the drive opened March 1 and that the Memorial was sent out designating a quota for all fraternal organizations in the city, and a request was published in the newspapers asking citizens to subscribe.

The amount so far subscribed, said Mr. Steuding, is 12.7 per cent of the quota of $25,000.

In March, he said, the committee mailed out to 103 fraternal organizations the quotas assigned them, and of that number seven organizations have so far responded.

Mr. Steuding said that fraternal organizations should now plan to meet their quotas, since but six months more remain before the drive ends.

All donations should be made to Edward H. Remmert, treasurer, World War 2 Memorial Fund, National Ulster County Bank of Kingston, at Wall and John streets.

Mr. Steuding reported the following donations already received:

Kingston Freeman's Association quota of $1,000, donation $1,188.60, percentage of quota 118.86; American Legion quota of $1,000, donation $1,000, percentage of quota 100.

Chamber of Commerce quota of $100, donation of $100, percentage of quota 100.

Amalgamated Clothing Workers quota of $100, donation $100, percentage of quota 100.

Kingston Patrolman's Association quota of $1,000, donation $622.79, percentage of 62.27.

A. H. Wicks Fire Co. 4, quota of $300, donation $10, percentage of quota 4.

American Red Cross, donation $10.

Private Donors
Donations of $10: Edelmuth, William F.; Haver, N. LeVan; King's Dresses; London, Oscar; Snyder, Frederick; Universal Road Machinery; Walker, Milton.

Donations of $5: Cashin, John M.; Carroll, J. J.; Comstock, J. A.; Holcomb, F. W.; Johnston, Edna; Loughran, R. G.; Martucci, Francis; Newton, A. M.; Rose, Harry; Schneider, G. W.; Smith Avenue Storage; Shaw, Stanley; Standard Furniture Co.; Union-Fern Co.

Donation of $2: Boice, Pratt.

Suggestions Made
Mr. Steuding said that considerable discussion among individuals and organizations have been in progress throughout Kingston with reference to the type of memorial that should be erected to the veterans of World War 2.

Struggles, he said, have been made recommending a bronze plaque, stone monument, memorial building, clinics, parks, swimming pool, etc. Any of these types of memorials, he said, are undoubtedly justifiable, however, it is obvious that before any type can be recommended, accepted or erected, it will be necessary to have on hand a fund for this purpose. That is the reason for this drive now underway.

Administration Gets Big Defeat; House May Restore Some Eliminations

Washington, June 14 (AP)—In a resounding defeat for the administration, the Senate sent a thoroughly mauled O.P.A. bill reeling back to the House today with the price agency granted a year's anemic lease on life—and little more.

O. P. A. backers immediately raised a cry for President Truman to veto the emasculated measure. They predicted skyrocketing prices. And renewed reports circulated that both economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles and O.P.A. Chief Paul Porter were ready to quit rather than try to administer it.

However, the situation has yet to reach that explosive showdown stage, for the final version of the legislation that goes to the White House is still to be decided. House and Senate first must adjust wide differences on their separate measures for extending O.P.A. beyond June 30.

The outlook for O.P.A.'s continuation as is was rated darker than ever.

It was a 53 to 11 Senate vote that approved another year of price controls last night, but the same vote ripped away many of O.P.A.'s wartime powers and ordered ceilings wiped out July 1 on many major cost-of-living items.

Meat, butter, milk, all other dairy products, eggs, chickens, leaf tobacco, cigarettes and other tobacco products, gasoline and other petroleum items—all were stripped from further price control on July 1 under the bill.

The elimination of these particular ceilings was not included in the House bill. Thus they might be restored when a Senate-House committee adjusts differences between the two chambers and puts the bill in shape to go to President Truman.

Stabilizer Bowles and O.P.A. Administrator Porter both have declared that either Senate or House bill would wreck price control.

Draft Boards Cut In Economy Move; Only 75 in State

Albany, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—New York state's 260 local Selective Service Boards in the 57 counties outside New York City have been regrouped into 75 offices as an economy measure.

Brig. Gen. Ames T. Brown, state director, said the plan provided for only one office in each county except in a half-dozen counties of large population.

Chairmen of local boards in each county will select a group chairman and one of the compensated employees of the system will be designated as coordinator or chief clerk.

The program has no effect on Putnam county which has but one local board at present.

President Says Jackson Acted Despite His Request

Washington, June 14 (AP)—President Truman said today that Justice Robert H. Jackson had issued his statement criticizing Justice Hugo Black despite a presidential request for prior consultation.

At the same news conference, Mr. Truman declined comment when asked if he thought both Jackson and Black should resign "for the good of the country and the court," as a reporter phrased it.

As to whether either Jackson or Black had indicated an intention to resign, the President said he had received no indications of that sort.

The President told reporters that Jackson wired him on Sunday before the release of his statement in Newberg Monday.

Little Canning Sugar; No Blanks Needed

There will be no application blanks provided this year for extra sugar for canning purposes, it was said at the office of the Kingston War Price and Rationing Board in the municipal auditorium.

It was pointed out that spare stamp 9 in ration book 4 is now good for five pounds of sugar, and that probably after July 1 another stamp may be validated for five more pounds, which will make a total of 10 pounds for canning use.

Byrnes Is First To Reach Paris For Fateful Talks

Secretary and Bevin Say Meeting Might Be Last Effort to Make Peace

Paris, June 14 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes was the first of the foreign ministers to arrive today for the fateful four power conference which is expected to decide whether Europe will be united or divided into eastern and western spheres.

V. M. Molotov was expected momentarily from Moscow and Ernest Bevin was to arrive during the afternoon.

Both Byrnes and Bevin have indicated the meeting starting tomorrow might be the last attempt of the foreign ministers to resolve differences, and that the United States and Great Britain might execute separate peace treaties with defeated European nations if they are unable to agree with Russia.

Previous foreign ministers' conferences in London, Moscow and Paris since the war have failed to produce accord.

Byrnes and his conferees, Sen. Connally (D-Texas) and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) all declined comment as they alighted from President Truman's private plane, "The Sacred Cow," at 12:25 p. m. (6:25 a. m. E.S.T.).

A crowd including U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery and French Undersecretary Pierre Schneider greeted them.

Peace treaties must be drafted for Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Finland as well as Germany. Some agreement also is contemplated for Austria, which the Allies treat as an independent country rather than as a part of Germany, as during the Hitlerian and war periods.

The future of Germany is the basic issue at stake. One of the chief points at variance is the French insistence that the great industrial Ruhr valley be internationalized, a position tacitly supported by Bevin in an address Wednesday.

The future of the Adriatic port of Trieste, claimed by Yugoslavia with Russian support, is one of the main stumbling blocks to a treaty with that new republic.

Missouri Drops Anchor

Portland, Me., June 14 (AP)—The $82,000,000 U. S. S. Missouri, the battleship aboard which the Japanese signed their surrender, dropped anchor in Portland harbor today for an 11-weeks' training visit.

into the open a "feud" in the court and told of his objection to Black's participation in a case in which Black's former law partner represented the United Mine Workers who won a 5-4 decision.

Black has not commented.

Mr. Truman said that when Jackson informed him of his intention, he suggested that the justice talk over the matter with him before acting.

In response to questions, the President said Jackson had not done so.

Asked whether Black threatened to resign if Jackson were named chief justice, Mr. Truman replied he never discussed the chief justice vacancy with any member of the court.

Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky, secretary of the treasury, has been nominated for the high post.

Baruch Lays Down Cards For World

First, He Says, System for Control Must Be Set Up, Controls Decided

Veto Is Stressed

There Must Be No Veto, He Says, to Assist Violators

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
New York, June 14 (AP)—The United States today proposed to the world the creation of an international atomic development authority to handle atomic energy and agreed to destroy its own store of atom bombs and cease manufacturing them if an adequate control system is set up.

The United States made it crystal clear that there must be no veto power in any part of the framework it was proposing for the development and peaceful use of atomic energy.

It called for renunciation of the atom bomb as an instrument of warfare and for a world security program "not composed merely of pious thoughts but of enforceable sanctions—and international law with teeth in it."

Bernard M. Baruch, 75-year-old financier who played a leading role in this country's victories in both world wars, laid the United States' atomic cards on the table at the first meeting of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, on which he is the U. S. representative.

He lost no time in getting down to business. Addressing himself to "my fellow citizens of the world," Baruch said the United States "proposes the creation of an international atomic development authority, which should be entrusted with all phases of the development and use of atomic energy."

"When an adequate system for control of atomic energy, including the renunciation of the bomb as a weapon, has been agreed upon and put into effect operation and condign (suitable) punishments set up for the violations of the rules of control which are to be stigmatized as international crimes," Baruch said, "we propose that:

"Manufacturing of atomic bombs shall stop;
"Existing bombs shall be disposed of pursuant to the terms of the treaty; and
"The authority shall be in possession of full information as to the know-how for the production of atomic energy."

"My country is ready to make its full contribution toward the end we seek, subject of course, to our constitutional processes, and to an adequate system of control becoming fully effective, as we finally work it out," Baruch said.

The elder statesman, whose address constituted one of the most remarkable documents yet laid before the United Nations, said the matter of punishment "lies at the very heart of our present security system."

"It might as well be admitted," he continued, "here and now, that the subject (punishment of violators of the peace) goes straight to the veto power contained in the charter of the United Nations so far as it relates to the field of atomic energy."

"The charter permits penalization only by concurrence of each of the five great powers—Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, United Kingdom, China, France and the United States."

"I want to make it very plain that I am concerned here with the veto power only as it affects this particular problem. There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

Baruch envisioned control of other weapons of war and perhaps of war itself.

More Than Words Needed
Before a country is ready to relinquish any winning weapons, he said, "it must have more than words to reassure it. It must have a guarantee of safety, not only against the offenders in the atomic area, but against the illegal users of other weapons—bacteriological, biological, gas—perhaps—why not against war itself.

U. S. Proposes Atomic Authority

If we succeed in finding a suitable way to control atomic weapons," he said, "it is reasonable to hope that we may also preclude the use of other weapons adaptable to mass destruction. When a man learns to say 'A' he can, if he chooses, learn the rest of the alphabet, too.

"Let this be anchored in our minds:

"Peace is never long preserved by weight of metal or by an armament race. Peace can be made tranquil and secure only by understanding and agreement fortified by sanctions. We must embrace international cooperation or international disintegration."

Baruch, in proposing the international atomic development authority, said that starting with raw material it should have:

"Managerial control or ownership of all atomic energy activities potentially dangerous to world security.

"Power to control, inspect, and license all other atomic activities.

"The duty of fostering the beneficial uses of atomic energy.

"Research and development responsibilities of an affirmative character intended to put the authority in the forefront of atomic knowledge and thus to enable it to comprehend, and therefore to detect, misuse of atomic energy.

To be effective, the authority must itself be the world's leader in the field of atomic knowledge and development and thus supplement its legal authority with the great power inherent in possession of leadership in the knowledge."

The great statesman, who said he had taken up this task "in the afternoon of my life," told the commission that the "peoples we serve would not believe—and without faith nothing counts—that a treaty, merely outlawing possession or use of the atomic bomb constitutes effective fulfillment of the instructions to this commission. Previous failures have been recorded in trying the method of simple renunciation, unsupported by effective guarantees of security and armament limitation. No one would have faith in that approach alone.

"Now, if ever, is the time to act for the common good. Public opinion supports a world movement toward security. If I read the signs right, the peoples want a program, not composed merely of pious thoughts but of enforceable sanctions—an international law with teeth in it."

He said that the peoples of the democracies gathered in the council chamber "hate war . . . they are not afraid of an internationalism that protects; they are unwilling to be fobbed off by mouthings about narrow sovereignty, which is today's phrase for yesterday's isolation."

Penalties Are Discussed

As for violators of the proposed control framework, Baruch said penalties as serious as a nation, as the nations must . . . immediate and certain in their execution as possible be fixed for:

"Illegal possession or use of an atomic bomb;

"Illegal possession, or separation, of atomic material suitable for use in an atomic bomb;

"Seizure of any plant or other property belonging to or licensed by the authority;

"Willful interference with the activities of the authority;

"Creation or operation of dangerous projects in a manner contrary to or in the absence of, a license granted by the international control body."

Meanwhile, it was explained authoritatively that the procedure for setting up the authority, if the American plan is adopted, would be for the commission to recommend it to the Security Council and the Council to pass it on to the General Assembly. The General Assembly in turn would pass it on to the member nations in the form of treaties to be formally ratified by each country.

Baruch presented 14 minutes representing the fundamental features of a plan which would give the authority complete control of atomic energy, exclusive rights to conduct research in the field of atomic explosives, and the right of inspections by qualified representatives of the authority.

On the matter of disclosing atomic secrets, Baruch said the United States is prepared to make available in discussions in the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission "the information essential to a reasonable understanding of the proposals which it advocates."

"Further disclosures must be dependent," he said, "in the interests of all, upon the effective ratification of the treaty. When the authority is actually created, the United States will join the other nations in making available the further information essential to that organization for the performance of its functions. As the successive stages of international control are reached, the United States will be prepared to yield, in the extent required by each stage, national control of activities in this field to the authority."

Invites Criticism

Baruch invited criticism of the United States proposals and plans from other nations. In the first meeting of the commission, Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, said that the "common people all over the world demand that atomic energy shall be made to lighten the drudgery of their working days rather than fill their lives with fear."

Lie said the commission is charged with the responsibility to serve the Security Council in its task of maintaining international peace and security.

"To a considerable extent," he said, "the entire cause of world peace will depend upon the success of this commission."

The Atomic Energy Commission is made up of the eleven nations on the Security Council—Brazil, China, France, Mexico, the Netherlands, Poland, Egypt, the United States, the United Kingdom, Russia, Australia—plus Canada. Canada is a member because of its help in developing the atomic bomb.

Label May Reappear

Tokyo, June 14 (AP)—The "Made in Japan" label may reappear soon in American dime stores. Allied headquarters said today approximately three tons of sample items—mostly bath tub toys and Christmas tree ornaments to ivory carvings—would be shipped soon for display to American merchants.

It will be the first shipment of such goods since prewar days, although silk exports to the States have been under way for some time. Proceeds from such sales will be placed in an account against which Japanese may draw for purchasing food and materials in America, headquarters said.

To Discuss Food Situation

C. Chester DuMont, New York State Commissioner of Agriculture and Donald S. Howard, former researcher and China representative for U.N.R.R.A. will discuss the food situation before members and guests of the New York State Association of Small Loan Companies, Thursday, June 20 in the Utica Hotel in Utica. Mr. Howard's address entitled "How Can we Hungry Be Fed?" will be the luncheon feature of the Association's annual meeting which is dedicated to the theme "Food for Our Progress Toward Peace."

Commissioner DuMont, as a member of the panel will present the point of view of agriculture.

Announces Treaty

Moscow, June 14 (AP)—Izvestia announced today the signing of a treaty by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Sultan Ahmed Khan, Afghan ambassador, revising the 73-year-old frontier between Russia and Afghanistan through the vast, wild regions along the Amu Darya and Pyandzh rivers. This agreement once more shows the attentive respect which the Soviet government pays to the rights and needs of small nations," Izvestia said.

Steelman Is Picked For O.W.M. Post

Steelman not only would take over Snyder's old job but he would also continue in his present capacity as labor advisor to the President, at the request of Secretary of Labor Schwelbentbach.

The President was asked if O. Max Gardner was going to resign as chairman of the O.W.M.R. Advisory Board.

He replied that Gardner had been trying to resign from the post ever since his appointment as Undersecretary of the Treasury but that he had been persuaded so far to stay on. He did not elaborate.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Foreign Affairs Analyst

The world has seen many momentous international conferences during the past decade of crises, but the forthcoming showdown in Paris among the Big Four must rank among the most important, for upon its success or failure hinge relations between Russia and the western Allies.

Again the Foreign Ministers of the United States, Britain, Russia and France will meet to try to break the deadlock over the European peace treaties. The outcome will in major degree lie among the Big Three—Russia on the one hand and on the other America and Britain—for France has been playing the part of balance among the rest.

Secretary of State Byrnes arrived in Paris this morning on President Truman's private plane "The Sacred Cow," accompanied by Senators Connally and Vandenberg as advisers.

Senator Connally, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, indicated America's position in a statement in which he declared that no veto by one Foreign Minister must be allowed to "unsettle the whole peace program." He added that unless the Paris conference achieves "a quick and definite agreement" it should adjourn and call a peace conference of the 21 nations interested in these treaties.

Says He Would Sign

And over in England only the day before British Foreign Secretary Bevin had announced that if negotiations bogged down he would sign separate peace treaties with the defeated European nations. Previously he had characterized the Paris conference as "one last attempt" to gain Russian cooperation for peace.

Thus we find America and England agreed that peace cannot wait on the differences among the Big Four Foreign Ministers. As the dust begins to settle, it is not known what steps we may take to get these treaties, but I say no one nation is going to keep me in a state of war forever with other countries."

Well now, all this is tantamount to saying that Washington and London are calling on Moscow to make concessions. The western Allies maintain that thus far virtually all the concessions have come from them. Russia, being bent on her "security" program of reestablishment of her zones of influence, has maintained the position of taker rather than giver.

Has the time arrived when Russia is about satisfied with her expansion and is ready to adopt the role of giver? As I see it, there still are some concessions which Moscow wants to round out her so-called security program. However, there have been recent indications (quite apart from wishful thinking) that the Soviet Union might be approaching collaboration.

If this is correct, we may get results in Paris. One of the main arguments for success is that this is, as the diplomats affirm, really a "show-down." A failure might easily divide Europe into two air-tight zones—Russian and western Allied. Obviously that would create a serious threat to peace.

There is no possible doubt that all the powers want to avoid war. That being so, the logic of the thing would be for them to see that the Paris conference didn't fail. However, logic doesn't always rule these days and we shall have to await developments. It wouldn't be surprising in any event to see some warm sessions of the Big Four at the outset.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 14 (AP)—Assorted stocks continued to edge forward in today's market although profit cashing halted the rise of some recently buoyant rails and industrials.

A certain amount of bidding again was based on hopes for a freight rate boost and relaxation of price controls by Congress. Earnings and dividends on the whole, provided bullish arguments.

Slowdowns ruled after a fairly active opening and trends were moderately irregular near the close.

Railway bonds retained popularity. Cotton futures slipped.

O.P.A. Bill Sent Back to House

trois completely and touch off soaring inflation.

No Comment Given

Neither would comment immediately on the final Senate vote, but Bowles last week promised to urge Mr. Truman "with all the vigor at my command to veto that (Senate) bill in clear and ringing terms."

Forecasting "disastrous" consequences if it becomes law, he asserted in that speech "no honest man would attempt to administer it"—a comment implying that he would step out.

After last night's defeat in the Senate, the hopes of administration lieutenants to recoup the situation were pinned on the chances—evidently none too robust at the moment—that the Senate-House conference group might agree to important revisions.

Democratic leader Barkley (Ky.), who will be one of the Senate conferees, said "no honest committee could work out a 'more satisfactory' measure than either the Senate or House bill."

He told the Senate Mr. Truman had advised him that he would be "compelled to veto" O.P.A. legislation if it came to him in the form passed by the House. Barkley added that he would not attempt to pass judgment on whether the Senate bill "is better or worse than the House."

The Democratic leader urged Senate last night to pass the tattered measure, however, saying that otherwise all price control would end June 30.

The 11 voting days included after three days of debate included a handful of "New Deal" Democrats wanting stronger legislation. They were Senators Downey (D-Calif.), Kilgore (D-W. Va.), Mead (D-N.Y.), Myers (D-Pa.), and Wagner (D-N.Y.). Others casting negative votes were Senators Ball (R-Minn.), Bushfield (R-S.D.), Moore (R-Okla.), O'Daniel (D-Tex.), Thomas (D-Okla.), and Wherry (R-Nebr.).

The House bill would allow O.P.A. only nine months more of operations after June 30 compared with the Senate's vote for a year's extension.

Reduced Food Subsidies

Both measures called for reduced food subsidies. The House would end them by January 1 while the Senate would let them continue until May 1.

While the House left authority to keep ceilings on meat, it voted to end meat subsidies July 1 while the Senate bill also eliminates along with lifting ceilings.

The subsidies amount to 2 cents a pound and there would be that much "automatic" increase in meat prices. Downey predicted that with ceilings lifted prices would advance 20 to 30 cents a pound immediately and 40 cents a pound within 30 days.

But Senators Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) and Wherry (R-Nebr.) disputed his estimates. They and others contended so much meat is now sold in "black markets" that the public is paying far more than O.P.A. ceilings. Ending controls, they argued, would restore meat to usual distribution channels.

Both measures contain clauses aimed at assuring that profit mar-

Air Corps to Have Scouts as Guests Again This Year

This year the Air Scouts of the Ulster-Greene Council will have an opportunity of attending the Wings of West Point, Stewart Field, for a 10-day period of Air Scout activity. This encampment will start on August 20 and run for 10 days. The charge will be 75 cents per day, and the Ulster-Greene Council will be able to send six Air Scouts to this encampment. Thus far four have made application.

Another opportunity for Air Scouts is the "Wings of the Army," Air Scout encampment at the Rome Army Air Field, Rome, N. Y. July 1 to July 11. A splendid program has been arranged as part of which will be the 4th of July dance and glider experience. At both this and the West Point encampment there will be an opportunity for the Scouts to have actual flight instruction, provided they have the necessary releases from their parents. There is still room for 10 more Air Scouts from the Ulster-Greene Council at the Rome encampment.

While the program is being put on by regular air corps officers, the Scout officials will be in charge and the activities will be centered around instruction on the requirements of the Air Scout advancement program. Applications for both these encampments can be secured by any registered Air Scout from the council headquarters, Kingston.

It is expected that most of the Air Scouts of the council will participate in one or the other of these activities. Last year there were nine from this council who were able to attend the Wings of West Point encampment.

All who attend must have immunization for typhoid, small pox and bring with them a completed examination form.

At the present time there are Air Scouts in Woodstock, Kingston and Ellenville.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

"Burned Up"
Jola, Kas., June 14 (AP)—Things got flaming hot for catcher Dave Dennis during an argument at the plate in a Kansas-Oklahoma-Missouri baseball league game last night.

At the height of a dispute between his battery mate and umpire George Carney, fans saw the Miami, Okla., backstop start shaking sparks from his chest protector, and then quickly throw the protector aside as flames burst forth. Source of the fire was believed to be a carelessly thrown cigarette which had lodged in the protector while lying on the ground between innings.

Timber
Racine, Wis., June 14 (AP)—Someone stole A. J. Niemiec's new rowboat the hard way.

Sheriff Robert Matheson said that Niemiec, of Milwaukee, had chained his 14-foot boat to a medium sized hickory tree on the shore of Norton's Lake after a weekend fishing trip.

He returned later and found the tree chopped down and the rowboat gone.

Airtight Alibi
Virginia, Minn., June 14 (AP)—When Harold Lakoskey's friends laughed when he tried to tell about the big one that got away, he went on another fishing trip in Hoodoo Lake.

And he came back with a better story. He had caught the one that had fooled him the first time, a 24-pound northern pike.

To prove it, he exhibited the fish from whose jaw his original hook, leader and sinker still dangled.

A class for boys in which they are taught how to prepare themselves for happy marriage and how to bring up a family, has been started at the home of the Rev. S. G. Janney, of Preston, Lancashire, London reports. Open to boys of 15 and up, the course first outlines the structure of an ideal home and the pitfalls besetting young married people. Lectures deal with falling in love, flirting, courting and description of the marriage ceremony with emphasis on its sanctity, and keeping in love after marriage. The Rev. Janney already has conducted a similar course for girls.

Any person who knows anything about Margaret Hooker, who was born about 1553 (five years after the Armada) and died about 1613 (eight years after the Gunpowder Plot) can earn $20 by giving the date of her supposed marriage and burial, to Canon F. J. Shirley, of Canterbury Cathedral, London reports. She was a daughter of Richard Hooker, 16th century theologian, whose life story Canon Shirley is writing.

Celuch Farm on Route 32 Was Damaged by Storm

The Celuch farm at Maryknoll, opposite the Tschirky place on Route 32, was one of the places that felt the fury of Tuesday evening's storm.

Mrs. Celuch said that the storm swept east over the Shawangunks at Lake Mohonk and their place felt the full effect. Shingles were torn off of the large house; half of the roof was stripped from a two-story tenant house on the property; the roof was torn off of the large barn and parts carried some distance; a chicken coop was sent whirling across the lawn and into a field and a number of young chickens were killed. A number of large trees were uprooted or broken and fruit trees were damaged. There was also much minor damage to small shrubs and bushes.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Palmer have returned from a convention of telegraphers, held in Ohio. The storm of Tuesday afternoon did much damage to trees in this area. Electric and telephone services were disrupted for several hours.

A large congregation gathered at the Reformed Church on Wednesday evening, where John Hart, recently graduated from New Brunswick Theological Seminary, was ordained and installed as pastor of the church. The services, always impressive, were made doubly so by the fact that the charge to the Rev. Mr. Hart was given by his father, and the charge to the people was given by the Rev. L. M. Braam, who was ordained and installed as pastor of the church almost 25 years ago. Many relatives and friends from Mr. Hart's home church motored from New Jersey for the occasion and a number of his young friends already in the ministry were present to assist in the service. The ceremony was followed by a social hour, when the ladies of the church served refreshments.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 14, 1946

OF INTEREST TO ALL

The O.P.A. Bill now before the Senate affects the purse of every American. Passed by the House over bitter minority protests, the bill offers extension of O.P.A. until June, 1947, but in sharply curtailed form. Major features of the bill, condemned by Stabilization Director Bowles are:

End of price control this June 30 over meat, poultry, eggs and dairy products; farm products to be kept under price control designated by the secretary of agriculture rather than by the price administrator; establishment of a de-control price board independent of and with power over the O.P.A.; O.P.A. forbidden to interfere with mark-ups of items such as automobiles, refrigerators, radios, washing machines and similar "re-conversions" items; cut of subsidies to food growers and producers, aimed to absorb higher production costs and keep such from consumer; prohibition of control to any items not on the control list May 1 and inauguration of no new subsidies.

O.P.A. backers say the passage of such a bill will add $500,000,000 to the nation's living costs. People on the other side disbelieve this. One thing is certain: With full production the nation can weather the next year or two. Without it, trouble for everyone is sure as death and taxes.

STILL UNCONQUERED

It becomes clear that the re-education of Nazis along democratic lines will take a long time. Even the Russians are learning this. There are not enough reliable school teachers. The master race idea still is taught in Greater Hesse, Bavaria, Wurtemberg-Baden. Discharged Wehrmacht officers obstruct liberalism in universities. German educators more boldly back them up.

The Nazi movement has gone underground politically. There is evidence of a resurgent industrial Germany in such instances as that of the I. G. Farben cartel. According to testimony before Senator Kilgore's committee, only two of its 52 plants in the American zone were destroyed.

The June Atlantic Monthly suggests greater use by A.M.G. of recently returned German prisoners of war trained in the United States, as well as increased recognition of German Social Democrats.

The cold facts seem to agree with Secretary Byrnes' conviction that Allied supervision must last much longer than originally planned, a period at least of 25 years. A peace treaty for Germany that will be real insurance against another war is a long way off.

AUTOMOBILE JUBILEE

Detroit recently celebrated 50 years of automobiling. It is startling to think that the auto, so generally taken-for-granted as a business and pleasure necessity, is less than a life time old. The middle-aged of the country recall their "first auto", and will burst into reminiscences about it at the slightest chance. Their children listen with tolerant, or not so tolerant, boredom. The horse-and-buggy age is as far away to them as the day of Roman chariots.

But Detroit knows better. In its automobile jubilee it honored 14 of the country's pioneer auto-builders with election to a newly-established Hall of Fame: Henry Ford, Ransom Olds, Charles Nash, J. F. Duryea, Barney Oldfield, and others. These men and their associates built a four billion dollar enterprise whose product basically altered living and earning habits of mankind.

AT SUCH A TIME

A federal Grand Jury in Louisville, Ky., returned indictments alleging black market sales of 11,500 barrels of whiskey, in which over-ceiling profits amounted to $2,000,000. The operations date back to mid-1943.

Law-breaking cannot be condoned at any time. But the point giving most concern in this report is something else. When millions of the nation's best youth were giving their lives to protect their country, other citizens who remained at home were trading in black

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

MESSAGERS OF STATE

A curious debate has recently been stimulated by the resignation of Ed Stettinius as the head of the American delegation to U.N. It seems that Mr. Stettinius dislikes being a messenger boy, which, after all, an Envoy Extraordinary is intended to be by tradition, law and the modus operandi of diplomacy. It is true that before the telegraph, telephone and radio were invented, diplomats were given some leeway because the means of communications were so poor, but the conduct of the foreign policy remained the province of the sovereign.

The conduct of the Foreign Policy of the United States is a function of the President and he is assisted by the Secretary of State, who is intended as the agency to carry out his instructions. Sometimes a strong Secretary of State bosses a weak President, as Charles Evans Hughes did to Warren Harding. These two are the only responsible officials; all others are subordinate to them and have no responsibility to them. Mr. Stettinius, as delegate to U.N., was subordinate to the decision of the President and the Secretary of State and was bound by their will. The same is true of every delegate to U.N. Mr. Gromyko, for instance, would not dare to go off on his own. His job, as it is the job of everyone there, is to represent as an agent the responsible officials of the government that appoints him. It could not be otherwise.

What is curious is that orderly procedures in government have become so unusual in this country that the so-called liberals, many of whom are by nature and upbringing, intellectual anarchists, feign astonishment that a subordinate official is put and kept in his place.

Apparently they prefer such confusions as when Dean Acheson of the State Department published a proposal for handling the atomic bomb immediately upon Bernard Baruch's appointment by the President to issue a report on the handling of the Atomic Bomb. The so-called Acheson-Lilienthal document, which the State Department under Mr. Acheson's management as Under-Secretary of State issued, tried to take the wind out of Mr. Baruch's sails.

The point is not whether that report was good or bad, it is that if the President, who is responsible, wanted Mr. Acheson to decide what should be done in the matter, he should have delegated the task to him and not to Baruch. If the President wished Baruch to do it, Acheson should have shut up. Certainly, Acheson added to the confusion and slowed up Baruch, whose recommendations are expected this week.

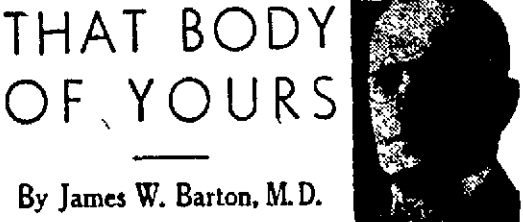

Fat Hurley experienced the same nonsense in China and General MacArthur in Japan. Little men, holding secondary jobs and lower, seek to "build empires" of their own within a government department, upsetting the decisions of their superiors and making administration difficult, confused and inefficient. The O.W.I. was an example of that during the war as is the O.P.A. now. In the F.C.C., everybody seems to be on his own, and radio has yet to discover what the relationship of the F.C.C. program is to the law as enacted by Congress.

To citizens faced by immediate problems, the processes of government may be academic. Actually, they are of the essence. As government affects our food, our rents, our transportation, our ability to produce and distribute goods, the administration of government must be orderly, and the first step in orderly government is the subordination of officials to their superior officers. New Dealers speak of men on different levels to indicate that they understand that the office boy does not have the same authority as the Boss.

But all this newfangled lingo is unnecessary. The American people are governed by a Constitution which provides that acts of legislation are passed by Congress and their execution is the province of the President. The responsibility is fixed and although parts of its authority to the President, it can delegate none of its responsibility. Similarly, whereas the President may employ some 3,000,000 subordinates, the responsibility to the nation is his alone.

This is an orderly system and those who have altered it during the past decade have produced only confusion.

TUBERCULOSIS

As a medical student I looked on with awe and admiration as our professors and assistants examined the chest to discover tuberculosis. We were taught to listen to the breath sounds, to tap the chest lightly for the sound, the "feel" of the skin, the afternoon temperature and other signs and symptoms. Sometimes the professor detected definite signs of tuberculosis that students were unable to detect. Today all these signs and symptoms are sought but in most cases, if not all, the X-ray shows the exact condition of the lungs more accurately than any and all methods of investigation.

In an endeavor to discover tuberculosis in its early stage campaigns were put under way in many cities and smaller communities. These early campaigns were doomed to failure because "they appealed to the man in the street to report to his physician if he had some or all of the well-known symptoms—cough, spitting up of sputum or blood and loss of weight." By the time these symptoms are present tuberculosis is in an advanced not an early stage. Tuberculosis, like cancer, is curable in its early stage.

In Clinics, Dr. Robert G. Bloch, Professor of Medicine, University of Chicago, states that tuberculosis was not discovered early enough because all the various signs and symptoms were hard to detect by the usual methods but since the advent of the X-rays in all suspected cases it is "the mainstay of our efforts in the examination for chest disease." The slogan now is that tuberculosis has to be seen, not heard, and public health agencies now focus their propaganda for early diagnosis on X-ray examination.

The great number of cases of tuberculosis found in members of our armed forces in World War I was a lesson to all nations so that routine X-ray examinations of all soldiers, sailors and airmen in World War II prevented thousands from undergoing the hardships which would have caused advanced tuberculosis. The lives of these men were saved, the country saved millions of dollars.

The results of this routine X-ray examination of candidates for our armed forces is a real argument for the X-ray examination of the entire population because "these called up for military service are young and in supposedly good health."

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By ROBERT EUNSON
(For Hal Boyle)

Antwerp, June 14 (AP)—Half of the world's diamond industry has returned to this historic European trading center, in the year since the end of hostilities in Europe.

Control of the world diamond market has been centered in the dim-lighted little offices and shops along Antwerp's ancient Rue du Pelican for 500 years, but the war scattered the industry to the four corners of the earth. Merchants in Palestine, Brazil, Canada and the United States grasped feverishly for the market during the war years, but it came home to Antwerp again—and quickly.

During 1945, even though half the year was crippled by war, Antwerp exported almost $20,000,000 in diamonds. In the first two months of 1946 almost half of that value was exported, mostly to the United States.

"It is the cutting and polishing that counts," says Albert Rudelsheim, general manager of the Belgian Diamond Industry Syndicate. "The diamond cutters in Palestine or South America may have two or three years experience, but in Belgium it is a closed industry, passed down from father to son. Our diamond cutters profit from 500 years of experience."

"Diamonds have character," says Juda Polak, secretary of the syndicate to which every diamond merchant in Belgium belongs. "It takes a man who understands diamonds to bring out that character."

Diamond cutters and polishers in Belgium make from 2,000 to 4,000 francs a week (about $40 to $80) which is about twice the average wage in the country.

There has never been a strike in all these 500 years," Polak says.

The industry is controlled by a national commission of workers and merchants. Any differences that might arise are settled amicably by this body.

Rudelsheim says that the world production of diamonds is 95 per cent controlled by the Diamond Trading Company of London, which ships jewels in the rough from South Africa, British Guiana, Brazil and the Portuguese and Belgian Congo.

"The Belgian Congo is the greatest producer of rough diamonds," Rudelsheim says, "but they are mostly industrial diamonds."

Before the war 95 per cent of the products sold by the Diamond Trading Company went to Antwerp, but Belgian merchants now are handling only about 45 per cent.

"In 1939 we were employing 30,000 people," Rudelsheim told me. "Now we have about 15,000, but less than a year we should be approaching prewar times again."

Rudelsheim, who says that about 3,000 diamond workers were killed by the Germans, was captured by the Gestapo and convicted of sabotage.

"I was always a Belgian secret service officer," he says proudly. "The Germans sentenced me to death twice—once wasn't enough. The Americans freed me in 1945. He patted his stomach as if to add: 'I'm coming back fast now; July like my industry.'"

Gadget Fights Disease

Two engineers in Bolton, England, have invented a gadget which it is believed will greatly reduce spinners' cancer, a dreaded disease and a serious industrial enemy. It will prevent mule spindle oil from splashing on the operative. It is thought contact with this oil is chief cause of the disease. The inventors are Norman Milner, plant engineer, and Robert Fairclough.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The selection of the old Kingston Driving Park grounds, at the end of North Manor avenue, as the site for the present state armory did not meet with the approval of the Common Council in 1929, for the aldermen at a meeting held on August 6, of that year, unanimously adopted a resolution that a more central site be selected.

The action of the city fathers, however, evidently bore no weight with the state authorities, for they went ahead and had the present armory erected on the former driving park grounds.

The principal objection to the location of the new armory was the fact that it was located so near the outskirts of the city and difficult to reach, except by automobile.

Those who opposed the site believed that if the armory was erected on Manor avenue that it would not be possible to successfully hold social functions, such as the annual balls of the Shriners, the Knights of Columbus, the Benedictine Hospital, and the American Legion, owing to its inaccessibility.

That problem, however, was successfully solved when the old armory in later years was turned over to the city for a nominal sum, and during the years of the great depression was remodeled into the present municipal auditorium as a W.P.A. project.

The New York Telephone Co., on August 1, 1929, purchased the O'Reilly brick building adjoining the local telephone company building on Broadway. The telephone company announced it intended to hold the property for future enlargement of the telephone plant.

The O'Reilly building, which was three stories high, housed the furniture house of Mrs. S. L. Torrey on the ground floor; the law office of John M. Cashin, now county judge, on the second floor was fitted up for living apartments.

The old building was later taken down by the telephone company. There are many readers of this column who will recall the old Torrey furniture house.

Two prominent members of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer died in August, 1929. Both were charter members of the church, and both for years had been members of the church council.

They were William C. Kukuk, well known undertaker, and J. Leonard Salzmann, who for years operated a bakery on Sycamore street in Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Kukuk died on August 3. He founded the Kukuk Memorial Funeral Home on Tremper avenue, and since his death the business has been carried on by his son, Kenneth W. Kukuk.

Fraternally Mr. Kukuk was a member of Rondout Lodge of Masons, Charles DeWitt Council of the Jr. O. P. M., Kosciuszko Lodge of Odd Fellows, and Franklin Lodge, Knights of Pythias. He was also a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Salzmann died on August 10. For years he was active in Republican politics and had served in the Fifth ward in the Common Council, and at the time of his death he was a member of the Charity Board of the city.

Fraternally he was a member of Rondout Lodge of Masons and of Odd Fellows, and the Loyal Order of Moose. Mr. Salzmann had a pleasing tenor voice and sang in the local churches as well as taking part in many musical entertainments staged in the city.

He was an excellent baker and I still remember the taste of the rolls and bread that he baked at his modern bakery on Sycamore street, during the years I resided in the Ponckhockie section of the city.

'Misleading Statements' Are Easily Disclosed Under Analysis
—President Truman Is Quoted in Article

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 14—Hypocrisy is a mild word to apply to the political chicanery whereby officially worded messages and documents nowadays seek to mislead the American people.

Despite the protestations of sincerity and fair-mindedness which characterize their self-appraisals, many of our public men continue to make statements which upon analysis are revealed as transparently contradictory.

This week, President Truman used the following language in his message vetoing the Case Bill:

"We are not faced with a decision of choosing between 'this legislation and no legislation at all. It is more properly a choice between this particular bill and a more adequate and more inclusive solution of the problem."

Yet if the President has the slightest knowledge of the legislative situation on Capitol Hill, he must know that there will be no legislation on labor questions at this session of Congress if he continues to exercise his veto power.

The next bill to come before him will be his own proposal for emergency legislation empowering him to seize properties in essential industries when a major strike occurs. But that proposal may have in it a substantial part of the Case Bill and this means another Presidential veto, according to intimations from authoritative sources.

As long, therefore, as Mr. Truman insists upon a two-thirds vote of both Houses as the only means of getting labor legislation enacted, there will be none. Yet he gives the country the impression that he really expects to be given an opportunity to consider corrective legislation to stop strikes and help solve labor disputes. Mr. Truman had the opportunity to correct some of the abuses in the Wagner Law and ignored it.

In another paragraph of this week's veto message occurs this language:

"In 1943, in the heat of a controversy over a stoppage of war production in the coal mines, the Congress passed the War Labor Disputes Act, more commonly known as the Smith-Connally Act. In his veto message of June 25, 1943, President Roosevelt warned the Congress that the strike vote provisions of section 8 of the Smith-Connally Act would lessen but would promote industrial strife. That prediction was fully borne out by subsequent events. It is my belief that a similar result would follow the approval of this bill."

The foregoing gives the passing reader the impression that the Smith-Connally Law has been a useless law. It doesn't tell the people that Mr. Truman himself lifted the main section of the Smith-Connally Law and inserted it in the emergency bill which he transmitted to Congress for enactment a week ago Saturday when the rail strike had paralyzed the nation's economy. He does not tell the country that virtually all the seizures of property and operations by the government of plants where labor disputes occurred have been conducted under authority given by the Smith-Connally Law.

A glance at the executive orders recently seizing the railroads and the coal mines will refresh the President's memory as to the value of the Smith-Connally Law because that statute is specifically mentioned as the basis of his orders of seizure.

Why does Mr. Truman then mislead the public by such statements as are quoted from his message? He doesn't do intentionally, of course. Mr. Truman doesn't study these questions himself. He probably didn't write very much of that veto message. He calls for memoranda from associates and takes the language they give him. Doubtless if he gave personal study to these questions, he would realize how contradictory some of his comments have been, but he is too busy and too harassed by public duties to do it and apparently his advisers are not as mindful of the impression created by their ambiguous words, such as quoted above, as they should be.

Confidence in the candor of governmental spokesmen is essential to a continued faith in representative government. But the Truman veto messages do not increase such confidence. Its contradictions merely confirm a growing impression that the man in the White House is just playing politics in a misguided belief that this is the way toward a continuance in public office.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

BABSON DISCUSSES MORE INDUSTRIES

Babson Park, Mass., June 14—Once every six months I prepare a brief summary of the leading industries of the country, I discussed in this paper last week; I am now completing this summary.

Paper Stocks: The outlook for the paper industry is good. Just now it is handicapped by a scarcity of pulp; but this should be remedied as soon as the pulp mills of Europe get into full swing.

Petroleum Stocks: Although these stocks have been behind the rest of the market, they may be one of the best purchases. Readers, however, should buy the stocks of companies having large oil reserves rather than the stocks of the distributing companies.

Public Utility Stocks: These are destined for public ownership. This means that stockholders will be compelled to turn in their securities for cash at a time when cash may not be worth much.

Rubber Stocks: The rubber industry has completed its reconversion problems and earnings for the next two or three years should be satisfactory. Furthermore, the existence of large synthetic plants should make the industry more stable than in the past.

Steel Stocks: This country cannot enjoy prosperity without the steel industry benefiting therefrom. Therefore, the investments in the better-grade steel stocks appear justified. Steel plants, however, may especially be subject to bombing in the next war.

Tobacco Stocks: The tobacco stocks have many things in their favor but, of course, are much affected by taxation.

Transportation Stocks: Every month the railroads are showing declining earnings compared with the same months of previous years. I don't like this trend. Bus companies, both interstate and local, continue to do well.

Government Bonds: Every one should have enough cash or government bonds on hand as a good reserve for emergencies or market breaks and to pay estate taxes upon death; but otherwise I see little advantage in governments or "cash in the bank" at this time. This is especially true of those who are in high income tax brackets. It is very clear to me that unless the world has a spiritual awakening we are headed for another world war which would bring tremendous destruction to the United States. The net result of this could be the printing of currency to pay up, or most of the federal debt. Bondholders would get the money; but it wouldn't have much of any purchasing power.

Municipal Bonds: Most municipal bonds should be as safe as government bonds and, at the present time, are non-taxable; but, of course, are selling at a very low yield. The long-term issues will be paid when due; but may be paid in money which will not buy much. This also applies to many other investments founded upon debt and distant future payment to be re-

Luxuries Now Needed

Electric kettles, electric irons and washing machines are no longer luxuries but necessities in every modern home. The Belfast City Electrical Committee contends, in demanding that Northern Ireland remove the purchase tax on these items. Use of electricity for boiling three pints of water for tea three times a day saves plenty of coal in the coal-burner of a year, as does use of other electric utensils, it is pointed out.

The expression tying the knot in reference to a wedding ceremony, is derived from the fact that priests used to tie the ends of their robes around the joined hands of bride and groom.

Young Republican Suggests Justices Resign Their Posts

Westport, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—The resignation of two associate justices of the United States Supreme Court is proposed by the chairman of Young Republican National Federation.

Citing a public feud between Justices Robert H. Jackson and Hugo Black, Ralph E. Becker of Port Chester told the 14th annual convention of the State Association of Young Republicans last night:

"The washing of the dirty linen of the Supreme Court in public between the two justices was undignified. The court should be wrecked in popular esteem by unwisdom action or passion on the part of its members."

Becker asserted that "Justice Jackson acted in poor taste and Justice Black with poor judgment."

Becker assailed what he termed "the incompetent Democratic administration" and praised the state administration of New York's Republican Governor Thomas E. Dewey. He termed President Truman's veto of the Case Labor Bill a "disappointing exhibition in the midst of our labor crisis."

Dewey Assails Democratic Jabs At 'Moore Plan'

Governor Goes to Utica, Democratic Bailiwick, for Speech; Says City Benefited

By HENRY LEADER

En Route With Governor Dewey, June 14 (AP)—Governor Dewey lashed back today at Democratic criticism of the Moore Commission plan of state aid to localities, indicating he intends to make it a major issue in his campaign for re-election.

New York's sole Republican chief executive in nearly a quarter of a century, significantly chose Democratic-controlled Utica, second stop in his 10-county official business and political fence strengthening tour, to praise the Moore plan as a financial lifesaver for municipalities.

Dewey made public a memorandum which said Utica would fare far better under the Moore program of fixed annual per capita payments to localities than it did under the old system of sharing several state-collected taxes.

Payment of $666,441 "is the guaranteed minimum amount which the city of Utica will receive during each of the state's fiscal years (beginning with the current fiscal year) until the 1950 census figures are available," the memorandum declared.

This sum "is more than twice the amount of the city's shared tax receipts in 1941 and exceeds any single year's shared tax payments ever made to Utica by the state," the memorandum continued.

Democrats Vulnerable

Dewey knew in releasing the statement that the Democrats were vulnerable in Utica in their criticism of the Moore program.

Last winter, after the plan was announced, the Democratic State Committee's publicity organization announced that the 20 Democratic mayors of New York state cities were opposed to the plan.

One of the Democratic mayors listed by the party's state committee as against the plan was Boyd E. Golder of Utica. He promptly repudiated the statement, saying the Moore program would benefit Utica.

At a news conference Dewey called Utica a "shining example of the great success of the reorganization of the system of state aid to localities under the chairmanship of State Comptroller (Frank C.) Moore."

Dewey continued today interspersing official functions and political conferences with local Re-

En Route With Governor Dewey, June 14 (AP)—Governor Dewey today sidestepped a direct answer to a reporter's question, "Are you a candidate for re-election?"

"I'm being governor of the state of New York all the time," he replied, "there is no campaign as far as I know. As I understand it, the conventions will be held in September."

Dewey made the statement at a news conference in Utica, one of his stops on a three-day upstate tour.

Dollar vs. Cent
A big silver dollar, a little brown cent—
Rolling along together they went,
Rolling along the smooth sidewalk
When the dollar remarked—for the dollar can talk:
"You poor little cent, you cheap
little mite,
I'm bigger and more than twice
as bright;
I'm worth more than you a hundred-fold
And written on me in letters bold
Is the motto drawn from the pious creed:
"In God We Trust," which all can read."
"Yes, I know," said the cent. "I'm a cheap little mite,
And I know I'm not big, nor good,
nor bright;
And yet—" said the cent, with a meek little sigh,
"You don't go to church as often as I."

Fishing for Sharks Is All in Days' Work

McClintonsville, S. C.—The shark business is booming in Mc-

The Day brothers—Leland and

Gold in Them Hills
Interested in buried treasure? There are many caches of gold, jewels and paper money in the scrub and hillside around the town of Lae, New Guinea. They were hidden by frantic Chinese families in early 1942 before the Japanese advance from New Britain and though the refugees returned to retrieve their valuables after Japan's defeat, many found that nature, natives and half-castes had beaten them to it. Some who buried paper money in sealed tins found the notes so pulped together that they broke into pieces.

State Department Seeks Information On Late Openings

Because of the unprecedented number of requests which have come for accommodations at most of the New York state resort centers, serious consideration is being given to the advisability of promoting a fall vacation campaign in New York state.

The New York State Department of Commerce Travel Promotion Unit is anxious to know how many resorts stay open in September and October after the Labor Day season, also the number of guests which such places can take and other information which might aid in settling the question of whether a fall vacation promotion program is advisable.

To that end the questions are being asked by postcards which are being sent out to resort centers. On the result will depend the action of the State Department. In this matter the resort owners of the town of Esopus are fortunate, since they may still send this information to Town Clerk Alice Tinnic at Port Ewen, who also is secretary of the Town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce. By acting immediately those who have listings in the Town of Esopus folder, and since the folder is now in the "proof reading" stage a few more listings can be made if resort owners act promptly, will be able to incorporate in the listings the closing date for resorts in that town as well as the number of guests taken. If any resort owner has not included this information in the listing originally sent in, quick action now will make it possible to add this to the folder listings before it goes to print.

Jersey for State Bonus

Trenton, N. J., June 14 (AP)—A state bonus for veterans of World War I was pledged today by the Republican party of New Jersey in a platform which extolled the administration of Gov. Walter E. Edge as a "three-year period of history making accomplishments," which "represent the kind of responsible government New Jersey may expect under Alfred E. Driscoll during the next three years." In declaring for a state bonus the Republicans joined in a similar pledge by the Democrats.

Payment Barred

Harrisburg, Pa., June 14 (AP) — Pennsylvania's unemployment compensation law bars immediate payment of benefits to any worker idled by an industrial dispute at the plant or mine where he works, regardless of any personal participation, the State Unemployment Compensation Board of Review has ruled. The ruling made yesterday in connection with the strike of supervisory employees of bituminous coal mines in western Pennsylvania last September specifically disqualified rank-and-file miners from receiving compensation after a one-week waiting period.

ELECTRIC SERVICE During the Wind Storms

The recent series of violent wind storms severely damaged our electric lines and interrupted the electric service supplied many customers. Winds up to sixty miles an hour uprooted trees or broke limbs which in turn brought down the electric lines in hundreds of places. As a result many customers were without electric service for some period of time. Almost 13,000 calls were received in our offices during this time.

In each case, these storms occurred at the close of the day so that the location and repair of the damage were hampered by the darkness and rain of the succeeding night. Unfortunately in many instances communications were also interrupted which added to the difficulty of carrying on repairs. In spite of these obstacles our employees were able to restore service to a large number of our customers before the morning following the storms. Where the extent or nature of the damage called for major repairs the work was speeded by enlisting the help of additional forces from local construction contractors, in addition to our own employees.

We wish to express our appreciation of the patience and understanding of our customers who were hindered in carrying on their normal, domestic or business activities by the interruption of their electric service.

We also wish to thank those people, many of them individually unknown to us, whose prompt action in notifying us of trouble and guarding fallen wires was extremely helpful.

We further wish to publicly recognize and commend the skill and devotion to duty of our employees—linemen, line foremen and others—who have worked to the limit of their capacity and long hours without sleep in repairing damage to our lines at hundreds of different points.

No practical and economical method has ever been devised for distributing electricity in small cities, villages and rural areas—such as the territory we serve—which will entirely prevent interruptions of the service during violent storms such as occurred. The design and construction of our system conforms to the standards and practices generally used throughout the industry. In addition, however, advantage is always taken of new developments to minimize damage to the lines by falling trees and other acts of nature and to speed restoration of the service when it is interrupted.

Line maintenance work, including trimming of tree limbs which may interfere with operation of the lines, is being carried on continuously. The training of our employees on whose skill and efforts we must depend in an emergency such as the recent storms is also continuous.

We regret that these wind storms resulted in the interruption of the electric service supplied to many of our customers.

We are pleased however that our system withstood the storms so well, because of good construction and maintenance, that most of our customers received continuous service in spite of the weather.

Again we thank our customers and employees for their cooperation and helpfulness in this emergency.

Mayor Announces Champion Will Be At Outdoor Show

Marlo Defeats Banks, Decker, Rouse, Lose Thursday Bouts on B'nai Brith Card

After cheering themselves hoarse during the action-packed card of B'nai Brith boxing bouts, Thursday night, approximately 2,000 fans filed out of the municipal auditorium talking in a vein which presages a record attendance for the next show, Thursday, June 27, featuring Joe Louis, present heavyweight champion of the world.

The big attraction is to be an outdoor affair at Kingston's municipal baseball stadium, which is expected to be jammed to capacity with boxing fans from cities and towns all along the Hudson valley. Mayor William F. Edelmuht, who arranged for the appearance of the champion, confirmed last night an earlier announcement that the champion would be in Kingston on the 27th.

In a speech from the ring, the mayor read a telegram from Louis, stating that he would be at the stadium. Last week he visited the champion at his Pompton Lakes camp with the Rev. P. N. Saunders, pastor of Emanuel Baptist Church, and after the king of the heavyweights finished his training session for the Billy Conn title fight, June 19, they invited him to Kingston. Louis accepted with agreement that the church receive a share of the proceeds.

Arrangements are being completed by B'nai Brith Lodge to increase the seating capacity of the stadium to 6,000. This is considered a conservative estimate of the attendance by those familiar with the promotion of boxing here and along the Hudson valley. Comment heard as the crowd left the big Broadway arena last night were very encouraging, concerning the June 27th outdoor attraction, and members of B'nai Brith boxing committee reported they took many advance orders.

PREPARING FOR THE BIG NIGHT

SCOREBOARD

By JOE REICHLER (Associated Press Sports Writer)

The pre-season prediction that baseball was in for its biggest year financially was borne out today with the disclosure that with only one third of the season gone, exactly 6,298,060 fans—more than twice last year's attendance at this corresponding date—have paid their way into the 16 major league ball parks.

Bertelli, who thrilled football fans of the nation with his great play for Notre Dame, is at the present hooked up in a wild and very publicized contract jumping between the Boston Yankees of the National Football League and the Los Angeles club of the All-American Conference. Bertelli's case jumped into the limelight when he recently signed a lucrative contract to play with the Beantown club.

Although many of Bertelli's club members are unknown to local fans, the Browns are figured to have a well-balanced club which should give the Recreations a good go for their money from the start.

Getting back to the official averages again, it is noted that Peaderson heads the runs batted in column for the Recs also with six so far. Steve Ristau has with six while Bill Shelly, Lou Motzer and Joe Mott have each had three apiece.

Although a number of Recs are batting below the 300 mark, a sharp improvement in several cases was met after Wednesday's 14-hit attack on Ernie Spitzer of the House of David. Steve Ristau jumped his average from 154 to 235; Joe Wahl hiked his lowly .083 to .235; Bill Shelly advanced his from .272 to .333; Jimmy Ashdown gave his a boost from .250 to .33 while Joe Job remained at .333.

Wahl, who bats in the clean up spot for the locals, gave every indication Wednesday that he has rid himself of an early-season batting slump by cracking out three straight hits. Previous to that game the first sacker connected for just one hit.

Peaderson's .462 Clip Paces Recs; Bertelli Here Saturday

Local Third Sacker Also Tops R.B.I. Column With Six; Out for Third Straight

George Peaderson, hard-driving third baseman of Manager Joe Hoffman's Kingston Recreations, is leading the ball club in the batting department to date with a cool .462 clip. Peaderson, going hitless in only one of the four games to date, has bashed out six hits in 13 visits to the plate. Peaderson's batting average, along with all others, is released by Irwin J. Thomas, sports editor of The Freeman, who is the official scorekeeper at the stadium.

Before the season got under way local Recreation board members were informed that Peaderson would fill the important third base post which gave the Recs so much trouble throughout 1945. To date, Peaderson has come along nicely and although he has come up with a couple of boots, his play at the "hot corner" has been quite acceptable.

Ready for Bertelli

Manager Hoffman's club, now riding on a two game winning streak, will be out to make it three in a row Saturday night when Angelo Bertelli's Springfield Browns invade the municipal stadium in another night attraction slated for 9 o'clock.

Interest in the appearance of Bertelli's aggregation has reached terrific heights and the local management is looking forward to another great crowd at the uptown ball park.

Bertelli, who thrilled football fans of the nation with his great play for Notre Dame, is at the present hooked up in a wild and very publicized contract jumping between the Boston Yankees of the National Football League and the Los Angeles club of the All-American Conference. Bertelli's case jumped into the limelight when he recently signed a lucrative contract to play with the Beantown club.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Is Ready for Action

St. Louis, June 14 (AP)—Walter Pate, captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team, watched his charges wrap up their last practice round yesterday and then pronounced them ready for their matches today with the Philippine representatives.

Frankie Parker, national singles champion and an old hand in international tennis competition, meets Felicissimo Ampon, 106 pounds, in the opening singles match. He and Billy Talbert, one and two on the U. S. team, appeared to be in the peak of form. Amado Sanchez, No. 2 on the Philippine squad, will meet Talbert of Cincinnati in the other singles match today.

Drawing for doubles will be held today.

Yacht Bermuda Sinks En Route to Race

Hamilton, Bermuda, June 14 (AP)—The Bermuda yacht Zena, dogged by hard luck through most of her 39 years, lies on the bottom of the Atlantic today, just two weeks before she was to have made her fifth attempt to win the 635-mile race from Newport, R. I. to Bermuda.

The 36-foot, 6-inch craft, which left here last Sunday, sank in mid-ocean while enroute to participate in the first postwar renewal of the race last held in 1938, according to a brief message received here by Mrs. Thomas Newbold Dill, wife of the owner and skipper.

The message said Dill and all five of the members of his crew were picked up by the Joshua B. Lippencott, a ship bound for Baltimore.

Morgans Wallop Centrals, 19-7; Homer Is Hit

Jess Shultis Sets New Mark in Stolen Bases With Six; Losers Make Eight Errors

Manager Bill Ball's Morgan Restaurant team made it two in a row in City League competition Thursday night at municipal stadium by cracking out a 19 to 7 wallop over the weak New York Centrals. The Centrals played their worst game of the year, committing eight errors.

Hasbrouck Clouts Homer
Last night's ragged game was featured by Jack Hasbrouck's tremendous clout for a homer. Hasbrouck's drive went 375 feet in left field and the ball hit near the 381-foot sign and then rolled up and over the bank and onto the road. Hasbrouck rounded third when the fielder was getting his hands on the ball. It was one of the most powerful drives seen at the uptown orchard.

Jess Shultis, shortstop for Morgans, also featured the contest by pilfering six bases which establishes a new record for the City League. Three of the steals came in one inning.

Morgans opened with two in the first but the Centrals came back with three runs in the bottom half. The Ballman overcame that margin in the second with three and then pushed across six in the third and eight in the fourth to win the game going away.

The winners scored their last 14 runs on six hits, nine bases on balls, 10 stolen bases, four errors, a walk and a home run.

SNEAD TIES FOR NATIONAL OPEN LEAD

"Stammin' Sammy" Snead of Hot Springs, Va., knocks an iron shot from the rough on the sixth hole on Cleveland's Canterbury Golf Club as an interested group of spectators watch the flight of the ball during the first round of the National Open golf tournament. Snead and Toney Penna of Cincinnati, Ohio, tied for the lead with 69. (AP Wirephoto).

Byron Nelson Still Choice To Win Open Golf Tourney

Toledo Pro in Nine-Way Deadlock for Fifth; Says He's Made Last Mistake in Meet

Cleveland, June 14 (AP)—Snuggled in a nine-way deadlock for fifth place, two strokes off the sizzling pace as the second 18-hole round started today, Byron Nelson of Toledo still was the people's choice—and his own—to win this 46th National Open golf championship.

The transplanted Texan fired a 36-35—71, one under par for the tough Canterbury Golf Club terrain, and then declared: "I was misjudging my distance on second shots all day. But that's the last mistake I'll be making in this tournament."

Any poor judgment on second shots wasn't apparent as the 1939 open king and present ruler of the P.G.A., zinged a No. 4 wood to within three feet of the cup on the 15th hole and then holed the putt for an eagle.

Penna, Snead Lead
Out front as the all-star cast started today's play were Toney Penna of Cincinnati, O., who finished in a third-place tie in the 1938 championship at Denver, and "Stammin' Sam" Snead of Hot Springs, Va., who has made several valiant but futile bids to annex gold's greatest prize.

The two leaders clipped three strokes off Canterbury's par 72, Penna with 35-34 and Snead with 34-35. It marked the third time in the last four opens that Snead paced the pack at the end of the first round.

He did it here in 1940 with a sparkling 67 which stands as the best opener the tourney has ever experienced. His next rounds, however, were 74, 73 and 81 for 295 and a 15th-place tie. In 1939

Vogt, Bruhn Lead Wiltwyck Tourney Caddies Needed

Roy Vogt Posts Low Gross Score of 83; District Attorney Bruhn Heads Low Net Division

A heavy field will continue play in the annual spring tournament—a best-ball affair this season—at the Wiltwyck Golf Club this week-end, Club Pro Tommy Danaher said today.

All competition must be completed by June 30. Teams competing in the tourney must register with Danaher before commencing official play.

The usual week-end tournament will vie with the spring championship. Roy Vogt and District Attorney Lou Bruhn captured honors in last week's play.

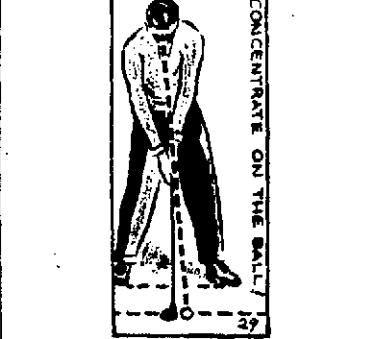

Vogt, one of Wiltwyck's top performers, shot low gross of 83, while Bruhn had 87 with a 15 handicap for low in the net department. Vogt carded rounds of 41 and 42 which with a five handicap gave him a low gross of 78. Bruhn's rounds were 42-45—87, with a 14 handicap for 72.

Winners in the respective divisions were:

Better Golf

By SAM SNEAD

5. When you step up to swing a golf club your problem is to keep your mind wandering away from the ball. If you let your mind drift to your mistakes in the hole, you've got a bet on this hole.

The course, softened by recent rains, was in perfect shape for play, and 23 matched or beat par as compared with 18 over the same layout in 1940 when Latson Little defeated Gene Sarazen in a playoff to snare the crown.

Little, who has won the National Open and the National Amateur in Cleveland, scored a par 72 in the opening round, a figure matched by nine others. The even-par shooters included Ben Hogan, pre-tourney co-favorite with Nelson to win the $1,500 first prize, and Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, the veteran campaigner.

Other Tournament Scores
Nelson and Little were the best of 13 former winners of the tournament who are trying again. Other ex-champions and their scores were Tony Manero 76, Billy Burke 76, Willie MacFarlane 76, Tommy Armour 78, Johnny Farrell 78, Ralph Guldahl 78, Defending Champion Craig Wood 78, Gene Sarazen 79, Sam Parks 79, Johnny Goodman 83, and Fred McLeod, the 1908 champ who picked up after 10 holes.

Eddie Meister, Jr., of Cleveland matched par with 72 to pace the amateur contingent, a stroke ahead of Ted Adams of Kansas City and Gene Dahlbender, Jr., 22-year-old Georgian.

Probably the most embarrassing shot of the day was contributed by long-driving Jimmy Thomson, who finished second in the 1935 tourney at Pittsburgh. Jimmy banged his second shot into a trap at the 18th hole, and with about 5,000 fans looking on, blasted far over the heads of the galleryites on the opposite side of the green.

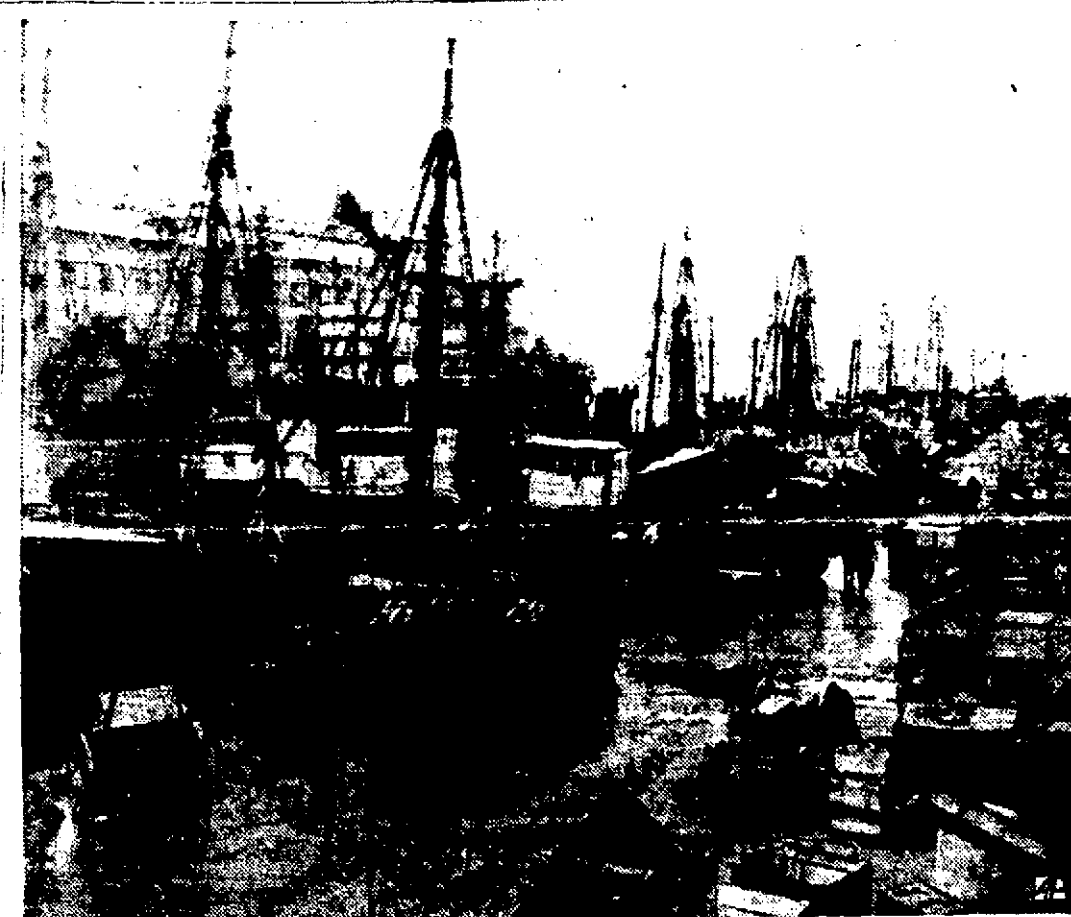

The largest gathering of crowd in open history—9,000 paid customers—was on hand for the first round and club officials estimated close to 40,000 would see the club-swingers in action before the 36-hole windup is over Saturday.

Assault Works Out For Aqueduct Feature

New York, June 14 (AP)—Assault, King Ranch's triple crown, Wood Memorial and Experimental Handicap winner, was given an extended trial yesterday for Saturday's 29th running of the $50,000 Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct. With Warren McIntosh in the saddle, the son of Bold Venture went a mile and a furlong in 1:56 over a sloppy track.

Besides Assault the probable field for the Dwyer is composed of E. P. Taylor's Windfields, winner of his last three starts; Mrs. Akzel Wickfield's Cable, Col. E. R. Bradley's Be Courageous; and Maine Chance Farm's Lord Boswell.

Golf Stars Are Human, Fans Agree At Cleveland Meet

Cleveland, June 14 (AP)—The large gallery following Ben Hogan, Vic Ghezzi and Dick Burton got a big kick out of sixth hole. It proved to them the big stars are quite human, after all. They all got their par fives on the 477-yard hole, but the way they did it was a caution and made the duffers say: "Why, I can do better than that."

Hogan's drive was in the rough, and he dubbed his second, the ball going about 20 yards. His third was in a trap off the green, but he finally blasted out for a one-putt finish. Ghezzi's second was trapped off the green. He looked up on his third, and the ball hopped up feebly and dropped back into the trap. He also finally got on for one putt. Burton was trapped on his third, and the ball hopped up feebly and dropped back into the trap. He also finally got on for one putt. Burton was trapped on his third, and the ball hopped up feebly and dropped back into the trap. He also finally got on for one putt.

As Hogan took his stance in the trap during this comedy of errors the horse of a mounted policeman, a nag with a sense of humor, gave a robust horse laugh from the rear of the gallery.

Governor Will Help Wicks Probe

to observers, because, when the bill creating the nine-member body was approved by the lawmakers, there had been no indication that it was designed to investigate education alone.

Official Terminology
Instead the commission was officially labeled a group "on coordination of state activities" and generally was regarded as continuing under a new name the now defunct State Economy Commission, which Wicks also headed.

The latter group was established in 1942, extended in 1944 and continued last year, when it had a $50,000 grant to spend on studies of governmental finances. It has been reported that Dewey signed the new commission bill reluctantly at the last minute partly to soothe the feelings of the Kingston Senator, whose measure to create a Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge over the Hudson river had been given a vigorous veto.

The Governor appointed to the commission three members he had earlier named to the economy group: Dr. Paul Studenski of New York University, Deputy Comptroller A. J. Goodrich and Lawrence E. Walsh, assistant counsel to Dewey.

Other Commission Members
—four Republicans and two Democrats come from the legislature.

On the surface the investigation has begun in an atmosphere of harmony and cooperation.

The Board of Regents, which controls the state education system, and the State Education Commissioner, Dr. George D. Stoddard, pledged their help and even said the study might benefit the department's organization.

Beneath this, however, run undesirable elements of friction and some animosity between various political leaders and department bigwigs.

Nobody will admit it on-the-record, but some of the highest officials in Dewey's administration—and it has happened in previous administrations, Democratic and Republican—have repeatedly expressed a desire to "clean out" or "straighten up" the Education Department.

However, it was learned, Dewey is expected to keep the investigation "in hand."

He is understood to favor weeding out an inefficiency which might exist but the strongly against possible public reaction and bringing down his party possible criticism for letting "partisan politics" or personal feuds become involved.

Taylor Will Continue

Washington, June 14 (AP)—Myron C. Taylor will continue as the President's ambassador to the Vatican until after peace has been secured, Mr. Truman told his news conference today. He added that he recently had informed a group of Protestant clergymen that Taylor's tenure would continue until the peace treaties had been written. After that, he said he told the group, we would no longer have an official representative at the Vatican.

Police Close Probe In Boston Killing

Police Captain Says His Opinion Is Hardy Shot Whitcomb

Boston, June 14 (AP)—Police closed their investigation of the slaying of President William A. Whitcomb of the Great Northern Paper Company today after a police captain reported that in his opinion George E. Hardy, Westfield, N. J., machinist, shot the paper magnate to death.
Police Commissioner Thomas F. Sullivan said that Hardy's left thumb print matched one found by Boston detectives on an unsigned contract found on Whitcomb's desk which bore the name "George E. Hardy."
"I consider the case closed as far as further police work is concerned," the commissioner added. Whitcomb was killed in his downtown office Monday morning by a man who fired two slugs into his body.
Police Captain John McCarthy, chief investigator, said he was of the opinion that Hardy "is responsible for the death by shooting of Whitcomb."
"Hardy was in financial embarrassment," McCarthy added. "He had been loafing for a year and had a grand opinion of himself."
McCarthy said on his return from Westfield, N. J., where Hardy died as a result of an explosion in his apartment, that Hardy's wife told investigators that her husband left home Sunday night saying he was going to Athol, Mass., for a job.

"Instead," McCarthy added, "he went to Mr. Whitcomb's office." He said that a pen found on the paper manufacturer's desk matched a mechanical pencil found in Hardy's home.

Dairy Committees Will Decide on Price Action

Syracuse, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—Representatives of county dairy action committees will meet in Utica Monday, June 24, to decide whether a strike of producers in the New York milkshed will be called.
Announcement of the meeting was made late last night by Paul Smith of Newark Valley, chairman of the New York Milkshed Dairy Committee, after a conference here of committee members and Dr. C. J. Biantora, administrator of the New York Metropolitan milk marketing area.
Smith said the producers were asking a 25 per cent increase over the 1945 milk price. They recently were granted a boost of 40 cents a hundredweight by state and federal orders.
